Dream Honeymoons Don't Have to Break the Bank This Wedding Season

May 28, 2015, 08:30 ET from Russell Hannon

CALGARY, Alberta, May 28, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- With wedding season upon us and the average wedding costing upwards of $30,000, newlyweds are looking for ways to take their dream honeymoon without breaking the bank. According to a recent survey by the online travel website Hipmunk, 84 percent of newlyweds say they would skimp on their wedding to have a fancier honeymoon.

But according to ultra-economical travel expert Russell Hannon they don't have to sacrifice their wedding for the sake of their honeymoon. By following his advice, newlyweds will be able to have their dream honeymoon without the big bill.

He can explain:

- Key wedding trends
- Travel registries newlyweds can setup in lieu of traditional registries
- What goes into an effective honeymoon crowd-funding campaign
- How to leverage the cost of your wedding to fund your honeymoon

CREDENTIALS: Russell Hannon is the founder of Break the Travel Barrier and author of Stop Dreaming... Start Traveling: The Ultimate Guide to Traveling More and Spending Less.
