

Travel Planning Form

The first step most people take in planning their trip is often the wrong one. For the most part, they want to go the same places at the same time as everyone else, all the while overlooking equally fulfilling opportunities that cost a lot less.

What You Need To Know

You'll never find the best price to go somewhere at the moment you suddenly decide you want to go there.

Slash the cost of your next trip

There is no one place on earth you have to see so badly today that no other can compensate. To visit your entire bucket list at a fraction of the cost of what most travelers pay:

1. Make your Bucket List: On the next page, list the top 10 destinations you want to visit.

If You Like

Spectacular natural scenery
Geographical Extremes in close proximity
Beaches

I Suggest

South Africa
Tanzania
Phuket, Boracay, Bali, Vietnam coast

2. Tag your interest in each destination: We all have a variety of reasons we want to travel. Family vacation, decompress, explore, visit friends, girl's getaway, let loose, etc... What do you want to get from each bucket list destination?
3. Tag your travel interest(s) to each destination in your bucket list (why you want to go there).
4. For each destination, indicate what mode of transportation you need to get there and the type of accommodations you would stay in. Then assess their relative cost against other destinations.
5. Prioritize your bucket list from least-to-most expensive, then prioritize again as per this scale:

TAKE	1	Short Window of Opportunity	OVER	Available Anytime
	2	Truly Free Accommodations		Free Accommodations (using rewards points)
	3	All Inclusive Accommodations		Accommodations not including food/beverage
	4	Free Accommodations		Free Transportation
	5	Free Transportation		Free Food (unless costs of transportation cost less than $20 per day on average)

*If two destinations are tied on your shortlist, prioritize your favorite.

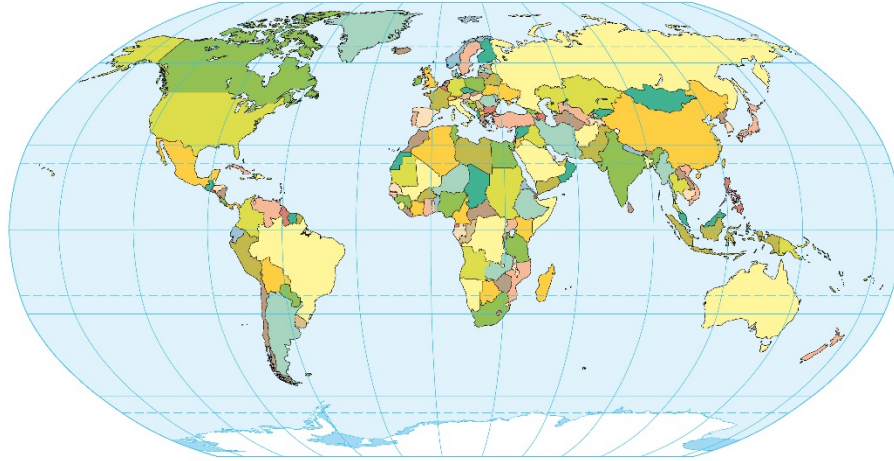

Once you're done, your shortlist should look like this:

Destination	Tag 1	Tag 2	Accommodations	Transportation	Priority
1. San Francisco	Visit Friend	-	Free - Adam's place	Car - 5 hour drive	1 Next Trip
2. Melbourne	Winter	Escape	Hotel - rewards points	Flight rewards points	2
3. Geneva	Explore	Adventure	Camping	$1,100 (Fly, car rental)	3 Most expensive

My Bucket List

Destination	Tag 1	Tag 2	Accommodations	Transportation	Priority
1.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
2.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
3.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
4.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
5.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
6.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
7.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
8.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
9.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____
10.	_____	_____	_____	_____	_____

“You get back from the universe what you put into it”

By prioritizing your travels from least-to-most expensive, you can travel inexpensively today without compromising. It’s quick and easy to identify the least expensive travel option aligned to your travel interest. Say you want to go on an extreme adventure vacation, lookup the highest ranked bucket list destination with ‘Extreme Adventures’ tagged to it and pack your bags. All the while, you are giving yourself time for the Vacation Initiation Plan to work its magic so you can one day visit more expensive destinations for significantly less than you can today.

To learn how you can melt away the cost of future trips and one day visit them at a fraction of what you would otherwise have to pay, sign-up to my newsletter at breakthetravelbarrier.com. You will get publication updates for my upcoming book along with timely travel advice. As a welcome bonus, you will also get a free copy of ‘Beat the Best Online Fare – Every Time, Every Flight’.

